

Occupational Health & Safety for Federally Regulated Workplaces

The federal health and safety legislation is commonly referred to as Canada Labour Code Part II and regulations under the Code. The Canada Labour Code also applies to employees of companies or sectors that operate across provincial or international borders.

These businesses include:

- airports and airlines
- banks
- canals
- exploration and development of petroleum on lands subject to federal jurisdiction
- ferries, port services, tunnels and bridges
- grain elevators licensed by the Canadian Grain Commission, and certain feed mills and feed warehouses, flour mills and grain seed cleaning plants;
- highway transport
- many First Nations activities
- pipelines
- radio and television broadcasting and cable systems
- railways
- shipping and shipping services
- telephone and telegraph systems
- uranium mining and processing

The BCFED Health & Safety Centre has developed a series of federal-specific courses geared toward workers under the jurisdiction of the Canada Labour Code. Throughout 2017 we will be offering many of our most popular eight-hour Health & Safety Education courses for federally regulated workplaces throughout BC. Check our schedule (see reverse) for courses in your community.

All Courses 8:30am – 4:30pm

Course Cost: $135* (per person, per day)

Course fee only – lunch is not provided*
